Williary Items. BATTLE OF FORT DONELSON .- A correspondent of the Missouri Democrat, giving an account of the battle up to Saturday night, thus speaks of GEN. SMITH'S ASSAULT. Gen. Smith is emphatically a fighting man, and, as may be imagined, the events of the morning had tended to decrease in no measure his pugnacity. When he received his long desired orders for an assault of the enemy's works, his eves glistened with a fire which, could it have been seen by his maligners, would have left them in no doubt as to his private feelings in regard to the present contest. All the arrangements were completed by 3 o'cleck, and his column was put

HOUSE .- The House took up the report from the Committee of the Whole on the Senate's amendments to the treasury note bill. Mr. Hooper briefly expressed his views. He said the object was to furnish a substantial and uniform currency, and to approve the distinction proposed to be made in favor of the bolders of the stock by paying the interest in coin. Mr. Stevens said he had a melancholy foreboding that they are about to consummate a cunningly devised scheme which will cause great in jury throughout the country. At the instance of the bankers the Senate has been persuaded to mangle and destroy what had monarchy on our borders is exciting profound cost the House months to digest, consider, and pass. The hill has been so disfigured that its very fathers fall to recognize it. Instead of be tanis has been in possession of the State Departing a beneficial and invigorating measure and affording a uniform and equal currency for all, it ment for some time past, and it will be found possesses positive and great mischief. It now has all the bad qualities which have been attrib> uted to it without a single benefit. In its amended form it creates two classes of currency-one for bankers and brokers and another for the people. It discriminates between different classes. Take away the legal tender clause and the Government will be in the clutches of the harpies.

> Among the more important amendments to the Treasury note bill agreed to are the following: The notes to be received in paymeat of all claims and demands of every kind except for the interest on bonds and the notes, which shall be navs 55. Authorizing the Secretary to dispose of the bonds at any time at their market value for coin, and for any of the Treasury notes heretofore or hereafter to be issued, or for hotes under this act. Mr. Hooper, after this vote, said that the bill had thus been rendered useless, and moved to lay the succeeding amendment on the table; which, if it had been agreed to, would have rejected the entire bill.

The vote on the motion to lay on the table was vens 24, navs 120.
